Why Us?

Health Action Training is a revolution in person-centred communication.

Our mission is to help people to connect with themselves and each other, as individuals and communities, supporting a global network committed to an ethics of care and meeting the needs of all people everywhere. We do that by teaching skills of attention, collaboration, and respect, building on the relationships, courage and compassion that make us human and help us grow.

Join the revolution!

"Health Action Training provides a dynamic and cutting-edge approach to developing Advanced Communication skills, at a time when the healthcare system and people that work in it are under increasing pressure.

Participants that have undergone this training have universally and significantly improved their practice and knowledge. It is suitable in any setting for any healthcare professional. I have seen the development of HAT and have been very impressed with both its academic base and its skills-based approach.
